Rehoboth Beach Area Hit By Fire

Blaze Sweeps Thru Heart Of Resort

Theatre, Stores, Restaurant Lost; Cause Unexplained

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del. (AP) — A roaring fire destroyed a 600-seat theatre, a restaurant and two stores Sunday in the center of this seaside resort.

Firemen said there were no injuries. The Avenue Theatre used only during the summer tourist season, was vacant.

An adjacent liquor store was extensively damaged, firemen said. Alvin Simpler, owner of the Avenue Restaurant and two apartments above, said the fire apparently started in the restaurant's kitchen and spread through air ducts to the rest of the building.

He estimated the damage there at $200,000 and possibly more.

Rehoboth Mayor Joel C. Stamps said a conservative estimate of the total damages would be at least $450,000.

Only the walls of the buildings were left standing.

More than 100 firemen from three communities fought the blaze for four hours before bringing it under control. Flames broke through the roof and the smoke could be seen for miles.

Firemen said several adjacent buildings, including stores and several homes, were threatened for a time. No one had to be evacuated from the homes, however.

The three buildings were located a block from the ocean on the community's main street, Rehoboth Avenue near First. All were two-story of frame construction.

The restaurant and the Avenue Jewelry Shop were open at the time the fire broke out. Firemen said everyone left safely. A candy store, the Candy Box, was closed. There were two apartments over the candy store and a banquet hall over the restaurant, cocktail lounge, and jewelry shop.

Women Serving With Red Army

MOSCOW (AP) — Woman volunteers are serving in the Soviet armed forces, the military newspaper Red Star reported Sunday. It said women are serving two-year terms in the army and navy as typists, radio operators, nurses and technicians.

The newspaper did not say how many women are on active duty in the military nor did it say how long the armed forces had been enlisting them. Although large numbers of women served with the Red army during World War II, it had been assumed the practice was discontinued.

Jungle Bars Path To Crashed Plane

MANAUS, Brazil (UPI) — Pair do Brasil officials said Sunday they have given up all hope for survivors of the Constellation which crashed into the Amazon jungle Friday with 50 persons aboard.

A rescue party slashing through the snake-infested jungle toward the plane still had not reached it late Sunday, and an air force officer said the overland trek might have to be abandoned and the wreckage reached by helicopter.

Mail Sets Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's city post office is grouping its force for the peak period of Christmas mailings expected to hit early in the coming week.

Postmaster Carlton G. Beall expects 18 million pieces of mail to flow through the channels of his office on each of the three expected peak days—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Aftermath Of Holocaust

Here are the remains of a gasoline tanker, center foreground, which exploded and burned after a collision with an auto on a downtown street in Sacramento, Calif. Gasoline-fed fire destroyed half a city block. Quick action by police saved many lives and firemen's efforts confined the blaze to the half-block area where it started. (AP Photofax).

Two Alert Policemen Save Lives Of Fifty

Pravda Renews Blast Against U. S. Citizens

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet newspapers broadened attacks Sunday on a group of U.S. Embassy staff members they accuse of espionage to include the Russian-born mother of one, Capt. Alexis H. Davison.

Pravda said the Soviet people want to be friendly with Americans, "but this doesn't mean we will be hospitable to those who dirty our house."

Capt. Davison, 31, a U.S. Air Force physician who serves as the embassy doctor, and his mother, Mrs. Hal M. Davison of Atlanta, Ga., were singled out for special mention.

Pravda seemed annoyed by the fact Davison—one of three Americans accused Saturday of involvement in espionage—is a master of the Russian language and has had numerous contacts with Soviet doctors since his assignment here in May 1961.

(Mrs. Davison is the widow of Dr. Hal M. Davison, a prominent Georgia physician. She said her family belonged to the imperial regime of Russian nobility and that she met Davison in Siberia in 1921, after the Bolshevik Revolution, while both were working with the American Red Cross. Her husband died four years ago.)

The others newly accused are Robert K. German, 35, of Dallas, Tex., a second secretary, and Hugh Montgomery, 39, of Springfield, Mass., embassy security officer.

All were alleged to have had contacts with Oleg V. Penkovsky, 43, an official in a Soviet agency on scientific research arrested as a spy Dec. 11.

Similar contacts were attributed to Richard Carl Jacob, 26, of Egg Harbor, N. J., a secretary-archivist ousted Nov. 5, and Rodney W. Carlson, 30, of Alcester, S.D., assistant agricultural attaché, who left Moscow voluntarily Friday.

The U.S. State Department in Washington has declared the allegations are completely unfounded.

Flames Sweep Half Block In Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two alert city policemen saved more than 50 sleeping Sacramento residents early Sunday when a speeding car rammed a gasoline tanker truck and turned a downtown street into a river of fire.

The car's driver was trapped and burned to death. Police identified her as Miss Frances Fontana, 41, of Sacramento, divorced mother of an 18-year-old son, Peter.

The truck driver, James Moore, 32, of Sacramento, was burned seriously.

Wiped out by the blaze was nearly half a city block—five homes and apartment buildings. Seven parked cars also were destroyed.

Mario Betti, 31, of Sacramento, told police he was waiting for the traffic light at 9th and Q streets to change shortly after midnight when the auto ran through the red light without slowing down.

When the car hit the truck, Betti said, "Everything went up in a ball of flame."

"I still don't see how the truck driver got out. I saw him leaping through the flames. His clothes were burning and flesh was falling from his hands."

"I yelled for him to lie down and roll. He rolled in a puddle of water and put the fire out."

Policemen Tom Stark and his partner, Paul Heitler, were in the vicinity and saw the flash of the explosion and flames boiling skyward.

When they reached the scene, Stark said, the 8,750 gallons of gasoline in the tanker was gushing from the tanks. The flammable liquid was running down both streets, igniting everything it touched.

Stark said he and Heitler ran from building to building kicking in doors and breaking windows to wake residents. They made room-to-room checks before leaving the burning structures.

Two other policemen arrived and helped Stark and Heitler.

Everyone living in the destroyed buildings was accounted for, Stark said.

It took firemen three hours to extinguish the flames.

23 Men Missing As German Ship Sinks In Storm

DEN HELDER, Holland (UPI) — The 3,218-ton German freighter Nautilus sank in the storm-tossed North Sea Sunday within minutes after flashing an SOS. Of the 24 crewmembers, one man was rescued.

Military sources in Labuan, North Borneo, said four long-range helicopter, three others, with a shorter range and six single-engine Pioneers are being brought in for the second phase of the mop-up operation. They will patrol and also lift troops as far as the Indonesian border with Sarawak and North Borneo in an attempt to round up the hard core of rebel leaders.

Head For Border

The informants said the British are particularly interested in the escape route the rebels are taking. It reportedly runs from south-east of Weston, about 25 miles east of here, in a southerly direction to the Indonesian border.

Harrison said he had gone on an aerial reconnaissance south of Limbang, in northeast Sarawak, where another large rebel force is heading south with British marine commandos in pursuit. Harrison said he believed the rebels would be caught and expressed doubt they could reach the Indonesian border because of the jungle tribes and terrain.

Leader Suggests Outside Help

SINGAPORE (AP) — A North Borneo political leader appealed to the Indonesian government Sunday to avoid direct involvement with the Brunei revolt.

Donald Stephens, chairman of the newly formed pro-Malaysia Sabah Alliance party, told newsman here: "I am convinced from all recent pronouncements, both in Indonesia and by (Sheikh A.M.) Azahari (self-styled revolt leader), that there is some outside power giving direct or indirect encouragement to Azahari to continue this vain struggle."

Headhunters Help British Quell Rebels

Six Killed, 100 Captured In Borneo Jungle Clean-Up

By JOHN T. WHEELER

MIRI, Sarawak (AP) — British troops and loyal jungle tribesmen tightened a ring around the main rebel force southeast of Miri on Sunday, killing six insurgents and capturing more than 100.

Official sources said there were no casualties among the British or among the loyal Kenya and Kadayan tribesmen, who have a long history as headhunters.

Tom Harrison, head of a tribal irregular force, said his units were being moved out for new operations against other fleeing members of the North Borneo national army. Harrison, who is curator of Kuching Museum, worked behind Japanese lines in North Borneo during World War II, leading a similar irregular army.

Borneo tribesmen reportedly took many heads of Japanese soldiers they killed as well as some civilians before being brought back under control. Harrison said no heads were taken in this present operation.

Leader Captured

At Brunei, a military spokesman announced the capture of Abdul Manik Hamid Manir Khan, identified as the rebel's second-in-command in the Tutong area, 20 miles west of Brunei Town. The spokesman said questioning of rebel captives was yielding much information. He declined to disclose details but said 100 Sarawak rangers with dogs were in town to act as jungle guides for operations beginning Monday.

Military sources in Labuan, North Borneo, said four long-range helicopter, three others, with a shorter range and six single-engine Pioneers are being brought in for the second phase of the mop-up operation. They will patrol and also lift troops as far as the Indonesian border with Sarawak and North Borneo in an attempt to round up the hard core of rebel leaders.

Cuba Seething In Resentment Against Castro

Turk Newsman Says 90 Per Cent Oppose Communists, Dictator

NEW YORK (AP) — A Turkish newspaperman who was in Havana during the Soviet-American missile crisis says he believes the whole island is seething with sullen anger against Fidel Castro and the Communist party.

"I am sure that at least 90 per cent of the Cuban people—probably more—are against the Communists and against Castro, too," Goksin Sipahioğlu, a free-lance reporter from Istanbul, said in an interview.

Even the lowly campesinos—peasants—who have been an important source of support for the revolution, are angrily but passively resisting the Communists, says Sipahioğlu, who was in Cuba from mid-October to early December.

Many Imprisoned

The writer says he was told by Cubans:

—Probably 9,000 Cuban peasants have been sent to prisons for refusing to work in the fields. They refused because, even if they were paid, there was nothing they could buy with their pesos. Their anger is all the greater because they feel Castro broke his promises to give them their own lands and, instead, had Cuban agriculture collectivized on the Soviet pattern.

—There are resistance organizations but the resistance to the regime is fragmented. The organizations cannot get together.

—Castro is rarely seen in public any more. He spends most of his time inside Havana University's buildings, arguing with young students who had been the source of much of his strength. He has been violently denouncing Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Food Rationed

The food situation, the newsman reported, is extremely bad. Even meager official rations often are not met. Here are some examples of the ration list: Eggs—five per person per month; meat—three-quarters of a pound per person per month; fruit—one banana a week per person; and oranges only for the sick; potatoes—six pounds a week; rice—six pounds per month per person; butter—one-eighth of a pound per week per person.

Practically nonexistent for most Cubans are cheese, milk, bacon, many sorts of vegetables, soap, toothpaste and other items. For women, there are practically no cosmetics. Shoes are scarce and it takes two months to get an old pair repaired. No woools or linens are available.

Medicines Scarce

Medicines, the writer was told, are severely short, and there is an acute lack of antibiotics, vitamins, insulin, laxatives, tonics, and even X-ray film.

Making the rounds are many bitter anti-Castro jokes.

The writer reported growing resentment at the sight of Russians and Czechoslovaks, resentment even at Cubans—young and old, men and women—forced to drill endlessly in the militia.

South Koreans Will Vote Today

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean voters go to the polls Monday to decide the fate of the new constitution which the ruling military junta has proposed to pave the way to the return of civilian government next summer.

It will be the first national referendum ever held in Korea.

Officers Say China Will Expand Front

Indian Troops Dig In At Major Points All Along Border

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Authoritative sources Sunday said senior Indian officers fear Communist China is preparing for a two-pronged drive into India through Burma and the Himalayan hill states of Sikkim and Bhutan if the undeclared border war erupts into serious fighting again.

Peking called a cease-fire last Nov. 16 and has reported pulling troops out of the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA) on the eastern end of the 1,500-mile border. There have been, however, no reports of Red troop withdrawals from Communist-claimed Ladakh in Kashmir at the western end.

Peace Terms Rejected

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has rejected Peking's "peace" terms and demanded Red Chinese troops be pulled back to positions held as of last Sept. 8. The Chinese Reds have refused to do so.

Nehru and Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan Sunday paid a flying visit to Leh, the capital of Ladakh, where they talked to troops, visited military hospitals and were briefed on the situation by officers. It was Nehru's first visit to 11,000-foot high Leh since the major Red offensives were launched in October.

The Red troops struck at both ends of the border and pushed deep into India-claimed territory, either overrunning or outflanking positions manned by outnumbered and poorly-equipped Indian troops.

Strategic Control

Now, senior officers here believe, Red China may expand the fighting front if hostilities are resumed. They said Burmese Communists have effective control of the strategic village of Putao, an historic military base in Burma's northernmost Khamti Long district only 60 air miles east of India's big Dibrui oil fields.

The officers said Chinese infiltrators also are in Putao and that Chinese forces just across the border are strong enough to assist them in a drive into India's Assam plains and the oil fields.

Another big Chinese force is concentrated in Tibet's Chumbi Valley, where it thrusts down between Sikkim and Bhutan like a dagger pointed at India. The point of the dagger lies less than 20 miles from the narrow Indian corridor which connects Assam with the rest of India.

Indian troops equipped with newly-arrived American and British weapons were rushed to the corridor as soon as the big Chinese troop concentration became known.

Explosion Rips Wall In Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — An explosion ripped a nine-foot hole in the Communists' Berlin wall Sunday night a few hours after 400 Christmas trees blazed into light along the wall to remind the people of East Berlin they were not forgotten this holiday season.

West Berlin police arrested three West Berliners on suspicion of setting off the blast.

Helmeted Communist border guards carrying machine guns immediately moved up to the gap on their side of the wall and guarded it against any attempted escapes by East Germans.

Charles Laughton, Top Character Actor, Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charles Laughton, an English hotel man's son who became the movies' top character actor, died Saturday night of cancer. He was 63.

The sadistic Captain Bligh of "Mutiny on the Bounty," the Oscar-winning King Henry VIII and the admirable butler of "Rugles of Red Gap" succumbed at 10:30 p.m. at his home.

The plump, admittedly homely screen veteran had been in a coma for some time. Beside his bed at the end was his wife, actress Elsa Lanchester, and his brother, Frank, a retired hotel man from England.

Laughton went home from Hollywood's Cedars of Lebanon Hospital on Nov. 30. Attendants said only, "He wanted to go home."

He entered the hospital last July 30 after prior treatment at New York's Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. At Cedars he had surgery for a collapsed vertebra. Afterward it was announced he had cancer of the spine.

Despite his final illness, he remained chipper.

"Of course he knows what's wrong with him," his wife said after the announcement of his malignancy. "The thing is, he's so cheerful."

She was a daily visitor to the hospital. Laughton's brother said Saturday night she was "taking the death quite hard."

He said funeral arrangements probably will be announced Monday.

Never a leading man but for 30 years a star of films, the round Laughton was unforgettable in a long series of varied roles.

With haughty pose, majestic gestures, ironic expression and voice ranging from a whisper to a belated shout, he portrayed divergent types with impressive skill.

Years after "Mutiny on the Bounty," he sometimes was called to the camera with "Mr. Christian!"—his well-remembered, repeated shout at Clark Gable in the film.

Among other memorable Laughton roles were Roman Emperor Nero, the artist Rembrandt and Quasimodo, the title character in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

He won an Academy Award in 1933 in "The Private Life of Henry VIII." Despite his English background, he was praised for a convincing portrait of a Southern U.S. senator in his final film, "Advice and Consent."

He said more than once: "I have a face that would stop a sun dial and frighten small children." He was notoriously careless about his dress. Despite obesity, he ate what he pleased. He lived modestly and avoided publicity.

In recent years Laughton's activities had included stage performances, especially dramatic readings from the world's great literature.

The readings started in World War II. Laughton began visiting veterans' hospitals to read from Dickens, Thackeray, Thomas Wolfe, Shakespeare and the Bible.

Civilian audiences, often at universities, heard his readings after the war.

The tours were successful and led to a reading of George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell." (Continued on Page 2)

Job Retraining Programs Fail To Reach Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Job retraining programs are not helping people at the lower education level, the chairman of the West Virginia Governor's Manpower Utilization Committee said Sunday.

David L. Francis, a coal industry executive and former mayor of Huntington, W. Va., said that retraining to date has been of persons with relatively good education.

The problem of retraining the persons with poor education, he said, is the largest single obstacle in retraining programs.

Francis, a vice president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, spoke on a radio program sponsored by the chamber.

"We have to learn how to give them (the poorly educated) a basic education first before we can even think about getting them retrained for another job," said Francis.

He said most employers want people with a high school education or its equivalent, yet many of the unemployed have the equivalent of only a third grade education.

Pope Receives African King

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII received an African king Sunday in his first private audience since he fell ill of anemia and a possible stomach ulcer Nov. 27. Then he blessed the Sunday crowd in St. Peter's Square from a window of his apartment.

The Roman Catholic pontiff looked well. His face showed good color. His voice was firm and vigorous.

His African visitor was King Mwami Mwambutsa, ruler of the new kingdom of Burundi.

About 57 per cent of Burundi's 2.4 million people are estimated to be Roman Catholics. The nation, a little neighbor of the Congo, formerly was part of the Ruanda-Urundi U.N. trusteeship administered by Belgium.

The Pope and the king, who is on a month-long tour of 10 nations, met in private for 25 minutes. Then the Pope received members of Mwambutsa's retinue for 15 minutes.

The Pope gave the king a signed photograph and a book on the works of Raphael. A spokesman for the king, who was empty-handed, said the king would send a gift later from Africa.

Maryland Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Prison officials meet with the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations Wednesday to discuss integration of prisons in Maryland.

The Maryland Penitentiary in Baltimore has been picketed by integrationist groups in recent weeks.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two university students have been ordered to stop drinking until they are graduated, to perform social work each week and to observe court cases for two years.

The unusual sentence was handed down by Municipal Court Judge Robert Hammerman to Steven Hill Reynolds, 19, and Aaron K. Bowden, 20.

The sentence was given after conviction of disorderly conduct. The incident took place in front of a fraternity house, where both are members. They must do three hours of volunteer work weekly at the Maryland Training School for Boys or the Red Shield Boys Club in Baltimore and also must appear every Sunday morning in Judge Hammerman's court.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 53-year-old Baltimore man and an 11-year-old youth were injured in separate train accidents Saturday.

Charles Laughton

which Laughton directed and appeared in with Charles Boyer, Agnes Moorehead and Sir Cedric Hardwicke. They sat at lecterns on stools, as Laughton had in his readings.

Laughton was born July 1, 1889, in the Victoria Hotel, Scarborough, England. The small hotel was owned by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laughton.

He attended Stonyhurst College. At 16, preparatory to taking over the family hotel business, he went for training to Claridge's, the famous London hostelry. His earnings were spent on theater tickets.

When Laughton reached military age near the end of the first world war, he went directly to the front lines and was gassed. Back home, he relinquished after a time his eldest son's claim to the family hotel business and plunged seriously into a theatrical career. At 25 he entered the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and a year later won its highest award, the Bancroft gold medal.

Professional roles followed. His first major part was in Molnar's "Liliom." Offers poured in. In "On the Spot," he played an American gangster. Then in "Payment Deferred," after a successful English run, he came to New York. Its Broadway success led to Laughton's Hollywood career. Laughton and Miss Lanchester were married in 1929. They became American citizens in 1950. Among the actor's many films were "Witness for the Prosecution," "If I Had a Million," "The Sign of the Cross," "The Castaways," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Les Misérables" and "Rembrandt."

Others included "Young Bess," "Salome," "Hobson's Choice," "Spartacus" and "Under Two Flags."

23 Men Missing

Rescue operations were begun immediately after the Nautilus' distress signal was picked up. An hour after the first distress message, the Trelux lighthouse reported seeing one man in a lifeboat, other empty lifeboats and rafts, and wreckage. The survivor was picked up by another German ship.

Other vessels also ran into difficulties in storm-swept seas from the British Isles to the lowlands.

The 5,408-ton Brazilian freighter Honduras, bound for Antwerp, ran aground but was reported in no immediate danger. Rescue ships took five men off the "pirate" radio ship Uilenspiegel after it reported it was in trouble. Four men remained aboard the ship which is moored six miles off the Belgian coast and broadcasts commercial programs which are banned in Belgium.

Gets Contracts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vitro Corp. of America announced Thursday it has received two Navy contracts totaling $467,500, one for research and development on torpedoes and the other for instructional materials in connection with calibrating precision measuring systems.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Daisy has been bragging for years that she has remained at 116 pounds since her marriage in 1945, despite four children. She does have a good figure, but those of us who knew her as a bride are sure she has gained at least 10 pounds. I had a party at my home last night and a guest who had more than her share of martinis suddenly appeared in the center of the living room with the bathroom scale in her hands. She challenged Daisy to prove she still weighs 116 pounds. Daisy had a few martinis, too. She removed her shoes, her jacket and her jewelry. When she started to unhook her stockings her husband stopped her. She mounted the scale but was too potted to read the figures so a male guest volunteered. When he announced triumphantly, "It's 121 pounds," Daisy shrieked, "That's a lie. The scale is crooked. I've been framed." She insisted her husband take her home and today she isn't answering her phone.

of Cruelty to Animals. This is a useful and humane service, as we all know. But to whom can I report a man who refuses to allow his wife to go to a doctor because he says all doctors are quacks and whether they find something wrong or not they are sure to send you a nice fat bill — especially if they think you have money.

This is a serious problem and I anxiously await your reply.—A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: There is clearly something wrong with a woman who is so completely dominated by her husband that she would need his permission to get a physical check-up.

Animals must be protected from abuse because they cannot protect themselves. A wife who has neither the sense nor the courage to see a doctor if she is ill, is, in my opinion beyond the help of friends.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(c 1962, By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A J 9 6 ♡A Q 10 4 ♦Q J 10 5 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♠ Double Pass 1 ♥

What do you bid now?

A—Two hearts. That's enough. This appears to be a strong hand, but you must not lose sight of the fact that you forced partner to bid and he may have nothing. A raise to three hearts would be improper because, as far as you know, it would not be safe. If partner has any definite values, he will bid again after your single raise. If he does, you may then contract for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A K 7 6 3 ♡8 3 ♦A Q 10 7 ♣8 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades. Despite the fact that you have more than a minimum, no other rebid is available. The hand is not strong enough to rebid at the level of three. Such a call requires considerable excess values.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠A K J 10 ♡A Q J 7 5 4 ♦2 ♣A 5

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Pass Pass 2 ♣

3 ♠ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—A mere bid of three hearts is the proper call. There is no need for any more violent action than this if you are to assume that your partner knows his way about town. Your cue bid of two clubs was an absolute demand for game, and partner is not permitted to pass at this point regardless of how emaciated a hand he may hold.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠K 10 2 ♡K Q J 5 3 ♦K 8 ♣A 9 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A—Your hand is worth 17 points in support of partner's heart bid, which renders it too good for a three heart response, for which the limit is 16 points, but not quite good enough for a jump shift which requires 19 points. You must, therefore, be content temporarily to improvise a bid, and the recommended call is two clubs. If partner should show any signs of encouragement, you will engage in considerable bidding pyrotechnics including perhaps a Blackwood call.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠A Q 10 6 ♡A 10 7 2 ♦5 3 ♣K 7 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Double

4 ♠ 5 ♦ ?

What do you bid now?

A—You have a split hand which is unsuited for play at five spades, yet your dummy values are sound. You should be able to take two tricks in defense and partner certainly one. Double to warn him that you have misgivings about fulfilling an 11-trick contract.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠Q 9 5 ♡7 5 ♦Q J 2 ♣Q J 9 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Double Pass 2 ♣

Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—With this holding play for game must not be abandoned. We recommend that you try once more by bidding four clubs. Remember that partner has doubled and raised your bid when you might have had nothing at all but four small clubs. You have, in fact, three queens, two jacks, and a fairly good suit.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A Q 5 4 ♡5 ♦9 8 2 ♣Q J 9 8 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—You should bid three spades. This could not be misconstrued by partner as a game forcing cue bid since you have previously passed, and then made a nonforcing bid of two clubs. It should convey to partner that you have control of the spade suit and are requesting him to bid three no trump if his diamond protection is adequate.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠A Q 5 4 ♡A Q 10 2 ♣K 10 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ ?

What do you bid?

A—This hand is slightly short of the values which would justify an immediate cue bid of three hearts. If partner should respond to such a call in clubs or diamonds, it could be dangerous to proceed to game. The best bet is to double and then raise partner's suit.

One Week To Go

Just six more shopping days until Christmas. There is still time to play Santa and nicely. To help you cross off all on the rest of your list—which may include those hard-to-please, or friends, who have everything — here are some gift suggestions for this last week of shopping.

To make her feel like she an Oriental princess and very much in vogue, choose a glamorous sari, sari dress, or a pair of lounging pajamas of silk satin in one of the jewel tones . . . gold, red, emerald, or aqua with jewel trim and hand detailing.

For your favorite man pick out a wardrobe of narrow-width ties in silk and foulard, silk rep, and homespun wool. If he's a Mr. Fixit type, he would really appreciate a pocket-size kip kit of polished calf, chuck full of stainless steel tools.

A teen-aged girl will adore a pair of the slimmest legged lounge pants in town . . . stores have them in everything from black knit to kid leather. Complete the gift with one of the striped knit shirts or overblouses . . . some come with hoods. Or, for real luxury, present her with a precious set of Christmas cashmires. There are slim skirts to match of dimensional cashmere. Last, but not least, choose a Christmas wrap with each gift you select that adds a gay, pretty, fabulous, or fun note.

Salinger Plans Press Briefing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger has agreed to hold a top-level conference with representatives of all news media on the Kennedy administration's government information policies.

Salinger made the promise to the Freedom of Information Committee of the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB).

According to the NAB, Salinger suggested that all news media participate at the meeting. No details were immediately available but the announcement said Salinger proposed that the conference be held "somewhere away from Washington."

HAVANA (AP)—A cold wave has hit tropical Cuba. In Havana, Cubans donned woollens as daytime temperatures failed to go over 60 degrees.

The Havana Weather Bureau predicted temperatures as low as 50 and wind as high as 40 miles an hour. The cold front started moving on this island three days ago.

Freezing temperature of salt water is four degrees lower than that of fresh water.

Non-Aligned
All The Way

It is clear to the world where the guilt lies in Red China's unprovoked attack on neutralist India. To all the world, that is, except the other nations that boast of their non-alignment policy. Six such nations — Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Ghana, Indonesia, and the United Arab Republic — met in Colombo, Ceylon. Only the UAR has shown any sympathy for India as the unprepared victim of aggression — though Burma and Ceylon, in particular, would be marked victims if China conquered India. The five agreed that their conference must not take sides. Premier Bandaranike of Ceylon even seemed to see something sinister — an attempt to drag India into the cold war — in the prompt response of the United States and Britain to India's desperate plea for arms aid.

This is ludicrous. A court of justice may quite properly protect the rights of defendants, but after the evidence has been aired it never insists that it must not take sides between a criminal and his victim. To do that is not mere neutralism or non-alignment. It is the abandonment of moral standards.

India has been attacked by a participant in the cold war, and if anything is threatening to get her involved it is not Western aid to her independence, but China's aggression against it.

If the decision lay in the hands of "neutrals" like these, any communist aggression would be rewarded. China should favor a tribunal.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Khrushchev The Pacifist

Editor's note: George E. Sokolsky was working on a typical column just before he was fatally stricken Wednesday night. He had titled it "Khrushchev the Pacifist." Here it is:

When Khrushchev opposes war, he is pursuing the only policy which a strong man could. The Chinese Reds want Khrushchev to go to war with the United States. The Chinese Reds would not do the fighting. They would be onlookers to come in on the kill. Soviet Russia would be devastated; the United States would be devastated. Red China would not fight, but would take advantage of any Russian weakness. Of course Albania would not fight at all. It would quickly be absorbed in Yugoslavia and then forgotten.

There are those who still believe war is unthinkable, unbelievable, untenable. They claim that the military always shout for war in order to get higher appropriations. Often they have "inside information" that Russia will never make war upon the United States. It is obvious to those who are working on the problem every day that the pressure on Khrushchev to make war is as great as the pressure was on President Kennedy to bomb Cuba. There can no longer be any question but that a strong movement has developed within the Communist world to oust Khrushchev from leadership on the ground that he has become "the running dog" of Western capitalism.

Thus far, Khrushchev has been able to hold out and is fighting hard to avoid a war. Should Khrushchev be ousted, the power of Mao Tse-tung in the Communist world will be paramount and there will be war upon us as Mao has been making war on his good ally, India. When Khrushchev calls his own allies war-mongers, he is using a correct term. There can be no mistake about that, but look what Hitler did to the world in the moment of his greatest frenzy.

The United States has to be prepared to the hilt at any cost, for the alternative may be destruction. It is possible that the policies of Khrushchev may triumph in Russia; on the other hand, anything is possible in a tense situation involving such an opponent as Mao Tse-tung.

There are those who say that everything that has been done about Cuba has been wrong. But they decline to accept war as the alternative to negotiate. The basis for their assumption that Russia will not fight used to be that the Russians could not fight; that they did not know how to build the hardware for a hard punch. They have dropped that basis. Now they say, what good would it do the Russians to fight?

Politicians do always operate on the assumption that their immediate acts must always serve the country; sometimes, they take steps to keep themselves in power. During the past three months, that was one of Khrushchev's principal tasks, to keep himself in power, to avoid having the leadership of the Communist world taken over by Mao-Tse-tung, the madman. In fact, there is every evidence that at the moment, Khrushchev finds more delight in Europe than in Asia. It will be a surprise to no one if the United States and Soviet Russia solve the Berlin and the Indian problem together and then ask the Western world's endorsement of what they have done.

The immediate task is to get off the brink. When countries discuss whether they should use the telephone or teletype to get the quickest decisions, they are close to missing a heart beat. That was true in November, 1962; it may be true again, any time. Both nations must be poised for war as long as they have not discovered a formula for peace.

(At this point Mr. Sokolsky laid down his pen to talk with a friend on the telephone. He was stricken during that conversation. Shortly after, Richard E. Berlin, president of the Hearst Corporation, calling on Mrs. Sokolsky, found the manuscript on Mr. Sokolsky's desk with Sok's glasses on top of the pages. Like a good newspaperman, he delivered the copy to King Features.)

The 'Little Black Box' Idea

France's 'Renovation': More Changes Coming

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS
So far as one can judge, the pallid drama of the NATO rally can be summed up in one sentence. The Europeans are not going to provide the additional ground forces that are so clearly needed, and the Americans are not going to make the bold attack on the problem of nuclear control which is increasingly urgent. But in default of current drama, there happens to be a drama of another sort, more obscure, far harder to define, far slower and more various, which nonetheless deserves the closest and most respectful attention.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathart

COMMUNIST SPLIT — The U. S. government and its western allies are greatly intrigued by apparently worsening relations between Russia and Red China. All evidence points to a widening schism between the two great Communist powers and world cold war strategists are probing for a means to exploit it. The breach is an unexpected dividend from America's firm stand on Cuba and the ensuing Khrushchev backdown. Leaders of the Red Chinese regime took strong exception to this show of weakness and are obviously convinced that Russia hasn't the backbone required to push Communist long-range plans for world expansion and domination. Some of the government's best international brains are hard at work to determine the extent of the break and to probe for weak spots in the Communist alliance. There is a genuine feeling that the situation presents an opportunity, unparalleled since the death of Josef Stalin in 1953, to affect the course of the cold war. The strategists have no hope that the two great Communist powers will push their differences to an open break. But there are grounds to expect that the strain will inhibit Russian military and technical aid to China, particularly in missile and nuclear categories. There are reliable reports that China will set off its first nuclear explosion in a matter of months, but it will be an experimental, cumbersome thing designed for prestige rather than practical use. Without Russian aid, China will not be able to develop an atomic warhead that can be carried over a military target for a number of years. One of the principal objectives of the U. S. planners is to help develop a situation that will keep such bombs and means of delivery out of Red China's hands.

Christmas Festivity Creates Many Fire Hazards

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Make this a safe Christmas. Most of us are lucky, considering the fire hazards that we create year after year. There are parties, festivities, gift wrappings, decorations, and loads of special fun. And we usually add to this scene one of the most highly flammable objects in the world—the Christmas tree. It burns like fury unless dipped in or sprayed with a flame proofing or flame retardant compound. Most yule trees must be cut well in advance of the season and may be dry by the time they reach the retail outlet. When too dry, they shed needles easily; their branches are brittle and they burn faster. Authorities tell me that the best way to test a tree is to bounce the butt hard on the ground. If the needles shower down, it is too dry. The needles should offer some resistance when pulled out, and a stump that is sticky with resin means the tree is fresh and moist, and is less likely to burn. The next step is to keep the tree outside in a bucket of water or in the snow until ready to put up. Then saw off one inch from the trunk before it is set up and keep the tree in water as long as it remains in the house. Don't put it near heat or the stairs. No one uses open flame candles but the electric lighting gadgets can cause trouble, especially when the tree is dry. Check the cord and sockets for fire and shock hazards. Christmas wrappings tend to accumulate unless thrown out every day; don't burn them in the fireplace. Decorations made of non-combustible material such as metal, glass, or asbestos are preferred. In addition, keep plenty of ash trays handy but no matches. Be emphatic about "no smoking" near the tree. Several years ago two families were made homeless by a young man who had a cigaret dangling from his mouth while trimming the tree. And don't smoke while playing Santa Claus, those whiskers ignite easily and burn quickly unless flame-proofed. TOMORROW: The value of food additives.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

One of the deans at N.Y.U. recently engaged a young history professor in a game of ping-pong. The young professor, too eager to show his prowess, was way off form and was soundly trounced. "You tightened up too much," the dean told him when the match was over. "After this, try to remember an adage I've repeated to myself since I was a boy: a teacher should never be taut."

A pompous history professor from the U.S. was invited to address a group of university students while he was visiting Tokyo. The Japanese dean acted as interpreter, writing the gist of the professor's remarks in Japanese symbols on the blackboard. Soon, however, the Japanese dean put down his chalk and stopped writing. Later the American professor asked him why. "Here in Japan," explained the dean with a respectful bow, "we only write when the speaker says something."

Old-time baseball fans never will forget Babe Ruth—not Grantland Rice's tribute to him, written just moments after the Babe had passed on: "Game called by darkness: let the curtain fall. No more remembered thunder sweeps the field. No more the ancient echoes hear the call. To one who wore so well the sword and shield. The Big Guy's left us with the night to face. And there is no one who can take his place."

More About White House Power
Plays And Our Foreign Policies

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It is difficult for either American newsmen or the American embassy to know definitely what happens in the power struggles inside the Kremlin. But it is possible to report quite accurately on the power struggles inside the White House. Both affect the peace of the world.

The first important power struggle inside the White House also involved Adlai Stevenson and Dean Acheson, together with the question of coexistence with Soviet Russia.

Stevenson spearheaded a group of elder Democratic statesmen very early in the Kennedy administration which urged the new President to take the initiative regarding Berlin. With him were Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, a former ambassador to Moscow; also Sen. William Fulbright, of Arkansas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who is a personal friend of Kennedy's.

They advised that, since the question of Berlin was bound to come up, it was better for Kennedy to beat Khrushchev to the punch, especially since Mr. K seemed to be in a very friendly frame of mind.

Khrushchev smiles
He had offered to send a cabinet member as a special envoy to Kennedy's inauguration; had cabled a glowing message of congratulation; and shortly after the inauguration had released our RB-47 fliers. Before the election he had refused to release these fliers for fear it would help Nixon win.

Kennedy knew this. In fact, Gov. Harriman had conferred with Foreign Minister Gromyko and cautioned him: "If you say something critical of Nixon, criticize Kennedy too. It will help."

The Russians took the hint. They definitely wanted to see Kennedy elected. So Stevenson, Harriman et al. knowing this, advised Kennedy to negotiate regarding Berlin while the iron was hot.

But other Kennedy advisers urged the contrary — chiefly Dean Acheson, former Secretary of State, a brilliant diplomat who will probably go down as one of our great Secretaries of State, but who was pounded so hard by Senator McCarthy as pro-Communist defender of Alger Hiss that he instinctively cracks down on everything Russian to prove his patriotism.

He and his close friend, McGeorge Bundy, plus career diplomat Charles Bohlen, former envoy to Moscow, urged Kennedy to give the diplomatic straight-arm to Khrushchev and not discuss the Berlin problem at all.

The new President, faced with the power struggle inside the White House, has veered toward hard core advisers. He sent a rather curt reply to Khrushchev's fulsome telegram of congratulations, made two announcements of a U. S. military buildup—interpreted in Moscow as aimed at the Soviet—and made plans for sending more U. S. troops to West Germany.

Khrushchev reacted the way one might expect him to react. He got sore. And when he was finally invited by Kennedy to meet him in Vienna, he was not in the friendly frame of mind as he was originally toward the young President he felt he had helped elect.

This was the basic reason why the Vienna Conference was such a flop; and why Kennedy returned home fearful he might become a war President.

Power Struggle In Kremlin
Another power struggle has been taking place inside the Kremlin recently. It also involved coexistence. Ambassador Foy Kohler has telegraphed Washington that Marshal Malinovsky, head of the Red Army, is bitter over the retreat in Cuba, that the Red Army appears to have been downgraded, and that moderates now control the Kremlin. As previously noted, it is difficult to know what goes on inside the Kremlin. But Kohler is a smart observer and substantiation for his report appears in last week's speeches in the Supreme Soviet.

There, Khrushchev took the same line he took in writing neutral leaders that he had pulled his missiles out of Cuba in order to avoid atomic war and preserve a policy of peaceful coexistence.

Foreign Minister Gromyko, rapping the Chinese warmongers, went even further.

"The Soviet government is convinced," he said, "that co-operation between the USSR and the United States—the strength of which was amply demonstrated during the war against fascist Germany and militarist Japan—is all the more necessary now that a new war with the use of modern means of annihilation would be so much more dangerous."

This appears to be a conciliatory opening similar to that given Kennedy by Khrushchev during the first days of the Kennedy administration, which was rebuffed on the advice of Dean Acheson. And the big question now is whether Kennedy will listen to Stevenson and arrange for talks, or listen to Acheson and rebuff the olive branch. If JFK's cronies of the press are to be believed in their Saturday Evening Post Article, the President is leaning toward Acheson's old straight-arm.

If Khrushchev gets the straight-arm again, diplomats are wondering what will happen in the next power struggle inside the Kremlin.

MADRID, Spain — Cybele, the goddess of nature, sits in a stone chariot on The Castellana. In the earth around the statue, tiny black and yellow pansies grow. The trees along the Gran Via shed crisp yellow leaves from one branch, while new green ones grow on another. Out on the farms, beans and cabbages flourish in sight of mountains shouldering their white matador capes. Nature, in Spain, is contradictory.

The grass is greener now than in summer. In the hot months, the province of Madrid is as brown and dry as a Moorish desert. Swift streams die and leave dark damp stains in their beds. The heat shimmers in tall waves of distortion. Workmen doze in the dark cool of a wall waiting for a bus.

Now winter is here. Flowers abound. The temperature drops to 56 and, in the early morning, frost frames the edges of a million cobble stones. The radio announces that the passes to Segovia are closed with snow and the Madrilenos ride their motorcycles with scarves around their noses.

The people are like the weather. They are difficult to understand because they hide their true feelings under good manners. When a Spaniard invites you to his home it is an honor but he begins with the words "por favor" (as a favor). No matter how pretty the home, he apologizes for it and will spend most of his time listening to you and complimenting you on your opinions, even though he may realize that your observations are naive.

Usually, he will not discuss the Civil War of 25 years ago with you—not because of politics—but because it is like a death in the family, something to be remembered in the heart. When he is introduced to a lady, he raises her hand halfway to his lips, and does not kiss it. He works from 8:30 a. m. until 1 p. m., goes home for a siesta, and reports back to work at 4:30 p. m. and remains until 8.

He is home by 9 p. m. and, if he is going to take his family to dinner, he and his wife and the ninos will start to eat at 10 p. m. It is common, in Madrid, to see children of four and five walking home from dinner at midnight or later. They are sturdy, healthy children with cheeks like fat apples.

They are sent home from school at lunchtime for a long siesta, and the entire family undresses and goes to bed until 3:30 or 4 p. m. In a public place, a man attracted by a strange woman will stare at her as long as he feels he is unobserved. Once two glances meet, good manners tells him to turn his eyes away.

He drinks wine at his meals as Americans drink coffee. Often, he pours small glasses for his children, and adds water. In this country, I have seen but two men intoxicated. Both were sailors in from the sea and they drank in an old neighborhood place, Casa Paco. There good rosada costs a peseta (less than 2 cents) and a liter, about a quart of wine, comes to 25 cents.

It is a happy place in Madrid Antigua. The food is fine and dinner for four comes to about $7. There, men embrace, rocking like bears as they greet and compliment each other. Women are always treated with deference, even by old family friends. The emotion on the surface is always respect.

The dresses of little girls are so high that the waistline is below the hips and the hem is three inches below that. To keep the little ones from freezing, they wear long white heavy stockings and heavy panties. Even in the poor sections, children have warm coats and good shoes. Almost all of them are shy in the presence of strangers.

The Spaniard who has much, and the Spaniard who has little, have one thing in common: enormous sentiment and soul. The big Dons and the little Juan all believe that God is watching constantly and each man is weighed for good or evil. Punishment for evil, they believe is quick and merciless here and in the hereafter. All Spaniards are convinced that life is simple to understand: much sorrow and little happiness.

Madrid is not Spain. Not truly, Madrid is huge buildings and broad boulevards and big limousines and rich shops. To feel like a Spaniard, a Madrilenos goes to Toledo or Sagovia or Malaga or Burgos. There, the richness of the earth and the poverty of the soul are fused. There, the shutters are closed against the sun, the guitars are muted, and a man carries his wine skin to the bullfights.

There, a family sits at an outdoor cafe, over sweet rolls and rosebuds of butter, tossing crumbs to pigeons and drinking thick sweet coffee from tiny cups. There, a Spaniard dreams through the iridescence of a fountain in the square.

Spain is complex and beautiful and proud, like little flowers which hide from the summer sun and spread their velvet colors to the weak rays of winter . . .

Do Something About The Cold

Bone-chilling cold held much of the nation in its grip last week and these chickens decided to do something about it at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mick Valenti in Beaver Falls, Pa. They just moved in on the Valenti's pet dog, "Russy" and roosted in the warmth of his dog house. "Russy" does not seem to be too happy about the whole situation. (AP Photofax)

Five West Virginia Co-Eds Cited At Centennial Event

By FANNY J. SEILER

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Five beautiful and intelligent co-eds, who will serve as "ambassadors" of West Virginia to promote the Centennial celebration, turned their attention Sunday from the excitement of a weekend of pageantry to plans for the future.

The five selected at the West Virginia Centennial Queen Pageant before an estimated 1,500 persons here Saturday night are:

Nancy Grace Conwell, Clarksburg, Harrison County; Peggy Catherine Tucker, Bluefield, Mercer County; Sandra Lee Ross, Clendenin, Kanawha County; Dee Ann Moore, Ravenswood, Jackson County and Barbara Ann Broadwater, St. Marys, Pleasants County.

One of the five, picked from 15 semi-finalists, will be announced as the official Queen of a Century of statehood at a Coronation Ball in Charleston April 27. The other four will serve as her court.

Following the announcement of the winners Saturday night Miss Moore said she "didn't believe it" when she heard her name called. "When they said 'Miss Jackson County I just stood there,'" she said. Then she added "I will try to do the best I can to represent the state."

Miss Mercer County said the first thing she thought was that "I hadn't heard correctly."

Miss Pleasants County summed up her feelings with "it's wonderful," while Miss Kanawha County said "it's fabulous. I'm so excited."

The five were each awarded a spray of red roses. All 55 contestants were given charm bracelets and a small trophy.

In addition, Martha Harris, Morgantown, was named Miss Congeniality, Linda Gutekunst, Martinsburg, was selected Miss Charm,

Midland Opens Enforcement Of Dwelling Law

Hazards Are Cited By Fire Chief

MIDLAND — The Mayor and Council recently approved a plan to enforce the New Dwelling Ordinance, Section 5, Danger to Life and Health.

The ordinance reads "Whenever any dwelling or any building to be dangerous or detrimental to life or health, the Mayor and Council may order those buildings to be removed, abated, suspended, altered or otherwise improved, as the order shall specify."

If any such order of the Mayor and Council issued under the authority of the section is not complied with within three days, it may be executed by the Town of Midland, through its officers, agents, employees or contractors, and the expense incurred shall be paid by the owner of said property, and such expenses may be recovered by the town, by appropriate legal action.

Fire Chief Harry Devlin said that the dilapidated buildings on Main Street are fire hazards, and that he had accompanied State Fire Marshal Jesse Jacobs on an inspection tour of the buildings.

He said the results of the inspection showed that the buildings contained paper, wood and rubbish which could very easily cause a disastrous fire.

Chief Devlin added that if these buildings should catch fire, the entire street would be wiped out. The buildings were condemned by the State Fire Marshal.

Mayor Lionel D. Baker commented that the buildings are a danger to children who in the past have entered the buildings through a large opening in the foundations. He also said that the buildings are eye sores because of their dilapidated condition, and are discouraging citizens from living in that section of town which should be modern.

Town attorney John C. Sullivan reported that owners of the buildings will be contacted immediately and a copy of the Dwelling Ordinance from the new proposed general ordinances will be sent to the owners.

Throughout the two days of activities in the capital city the contestants met with the five judges, West Virginia State College drama professor Fannin Belcher; Mrs. Margie Coley, Public relations director for the Greenbrier Hotel, John Cranford, West Virginia State Hospital business manager and R. C. Dawson, editor of the St. Albans Advertiser.

Recording Star Jennie Smith, a Charleston native, served as an honorary judge Saturday night when she appeared at the pageant. Miss Smith, whose real name is Jo Ann Kristof, was in Charleston to visit her parents.

The five finalists will begin their round of appearances at the New Year's Day Rose Bowl Parade at Pasadena, Calif., where they will ride atop the West Virginia float to be decorated in the theme of the Centennial. They will also appear at the Centennial Alpine Ski Festival and Winter Carnival, both at Blackwater Falls.

MIDLAND — The Midland Fire Company will hold its annual Christmas party for children of the community December 23 at 1:30 p. m.

Santa Claus will be present to pass out treats to the children. The committee appointed by John J. Devlin, president, is composed of William Spiker, Dennis Hamilton, Gorman Robertson, Francis Cullen, Harry Youngblood and Edward Eagan.

Chief Harry Devlin announced that intercoms have been placed in the fire engine room, bar, meeting room and at the Cavanaugh residence where many fire calls are received.

The intercom system was installed mainly for the purpose of altering the firemen of fire alarms and locations of fires more quickly.

Tipple Fire Closes Mines

SOPHIA, W. Va. (UPI)—About 30 miners employed by the Sterling Smokeless Coal Co. are out of work Monday as a result of a fire Saturday which destroyed the company's tipple at nearby Whitby.

But he said the mine itself, which depended wholly upon the tipple, will be unable to operate until new arrangements are made for that phase of processing the coal.

Damage to the tipple was estimated at $100,000.

Five Killed On W. Va. Roads Over Weekend

By United Press International

The deaths of five persons from highway accidents over the weekend brought West Virginia's fatality toll to 404 for the year, 55 more than at this time in 1961.

A two-car collision on U. S. 340 near Charles Town late Saturday night claimed the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Dickenson, both 21, of Annandale, Va., who had been married only two weeks.

Five other persons were injured as a result of the collision, including two that were hurt when a woman who was directing traffic around the wreck was struck by an oncoming automobile.

Another Virginia resident, Robert R. Chapman, 28, of Cedar Bluff, was killed when his car collided Saturday morning with a car driven by Eddie Hess, 30, of Beckley.

Harry A. Wisecarver and his companion, Betty Lee Miller, both 19 and of Martinsburg, were killed Friday night when their car collided with another on W. Va. 19 near Martinsburg.

W. Va. Public Works Unit Plans Final Budget Draft

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Board of Public Works is scheduled to try again Monday to work out a final draft of the fiscal 1963-64 budget it will submit to the Legislature in January.

Following three days of hearings last week, the board has been slowed in its deliberations by legal problems that must be settled before final allocations can be determined.

Another major problem, one board member said, was to trim expenditures of about $152 million recommended by Finance Commissioner Truman Gore to $148 million.

Gore had estimated the extra $4 million would be available as a surplus from this year's revenues. However, at this time, the board does not want to commit this surplus as part of regular departmental expenditures.

Instead, it probably will recommend to the Legislature that the money be used for such special items as the West Virginia pavilion at the 1964-65 World's Fair in New York.

Organization Drive Begins

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia council of Public Employees said it has begun a drive to organize workers in state liquor stores and in the State Road Commission.

Union director James Nelson said a local already has been chartered in Liquor Control Commission District 1, which includes Kanawha, Clay, Boone and Fayette counties.

Nelson said an initial effort to organize SRC workers would get underway in the Clarksburg, Fairmont and Morgantown areas after the first of the year.

He said that both Liquor Commissioner Clarence Elmore and State Road Commissioner Burl Sawyers have stated that employees under them have a right to join a union.

Rites Are Held For Del. Garrett

SALEM, W. Va. (UPI)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Clarksburg for Wade H. Garrett, 73, member of the House of Delegates from Harrison County, who died suddenly at his home here Saturday.

Garrett, who was first elected to the House in 1956, died of a heart attack.

A native of Marshallville, Harrison County, Garrett was educated in public schools at Clarksburg, at Broadwood Institute, Washington and Lee University and West Virginia University.

Garrett was a past president of the West Virginia Automobile Dealers Association, served as Clarksburg postmaster for 10 years and was a past president of the State Chapter, National Association of Postmasters.

Two Proposals Are Opposed By Medical Unit

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Medical Association Monday said it opposes two legislative proposals by State Sen. William A. Moreland, Morgantown, which it said would "lower the quality of medical care" in the state.

Association president Dr. L. J. Pace said a proposal to ease licensing restrictions for graduates of foreign and sub-standard medical schools would rob West Virginians of their protection from inferior medical practitioners.

Pace admitted that certain highly qualified individuals may be barred from practicing in the state because of present statutes. However, he said this was not sufficient reason to "strip the present law of all its highly desirable precautionary elements to rectify a few fortunate and isolated instances of temporary inconvenience."

Pace said the proposed bill would allow the state to issue licenses to any foreign graduates who have been licensed in other states. In effect, he said this would allow doctors to come here who failed elsewhere.

Pace added that Moreland's proposal for a new pre-paid medical insurance corporation governed by laymen does not constructively solve the problem of insufficient medical personnel in some areas of the state.

He said the measure would set up a "method of pre-paid medical insurance without the obligations of being bound by regulations applicable to other ethical insurance plans."

The proposal, which is being backed by certain labor organizations among others, would provide for a flat rate to be paid by members which would entitle them to all necessary medical care whenever it is needed.

Major League Clubs Deal 78 Players Since End Of 1962 Season

Giants Obtain Orioles' Fisher At Last Minute

15 Inter-League Swaps Completed In 24-Day Period

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Hoping to duplicate a successful gamble made at this time last year, the National League champion San Francisco Giants have dipped into the American League again for pitching aid and closed out baseball's inter-league trading session with a six-player deal.

The Giants completed an even swap with Baltimore just hours before the midnight deadline halted all inter-league transactions Saturday, grabbing pitchers Jack Fisher and Billy Hoelt along with catcher Jim Coker for pitchers Stu Miller and Mike McCormick plus catcher John Orsino.

It was the only deal of the 24-day inter-league period for the Giants, who apparently hope the Fisher-Hoelt combination can prove as helpful as Billy Pierce and Don Larsen when they were acquired by the Giants from the Chicago White Sox after the 1961 season.

St. Louis also completed its first inter-league swap in the waning hours, sending first baseman-outfielder Fred Whitfield to Cleveland for pitcher Ron Taylor and infielder Jack Kubiszyn. It was the Indians' third inter-league trade.

Orioles Buy Gaines

The Orioles also made a purchase before the curtain came down, buying outfielder Joe Gaines from Cincinnati.

The final transactions brought the total for the inter-league period which began Nov. 21 to 15 trades and/or sales involving 37 players and made 30 deals involving 78 players concluded since the 1962 season ended. Only Minnesota, the Chicago White Sox, and Kansas City failed to make at least one trade.

The Giants-Orioles trade primarily was a deal for pitchers who had disappointing seasons last year. It was in just such a trade that the Giants acquired the Pierce-Larsen duo last year and wound up with 21 victories between the two. Pierce was 16-6, Larsen 5-4.

Fisher, a 25-year-old right-hander who was one of the mainstays of Baltimore's famed Kiddie Korps, fell off to 7-9 with a 5.09 earned run average last year. Hoelt, at 30 an 11-year major league vet, was a 20-game winner for Detroit in 1956, but was 4-8 with a 4.82 ERA last season.

Miller had slumped to 1-10, was the NL's earned run leader in 1958 while pitching mostly in relief, but slumped to 5-8 with a 4.12 ERA as the Giants won the pennant in 1962. McCormick, 24, was only 5-5 last year, complaining that his left pitching arm hurt when he threw hard.

The trade was the largest of the inter-league period. Despite the late activity, Boston remained the champion dealer of the inter-league session with four trades made. The Red Sox had to part with such players as pitcher Don Schwall and batting champion Pete Runnels to get power in Dick Stuart and Roman Mejias.

Cleveland Baltimore had three transactions. Every other team in the majors, with the exception of the Twins, Athletics and Chicago White Sox made at least one trade during the inter-league period.

Tittle Tosses Giants To Win Over Cowboys

Playoff-Bound Club Cops 41-31 Victory

By NORMAN MILLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Y. A. Tittle, the bald eagle with the strong wing, threw six touchdown passes to set a National Football League season record of 33 Sunday in leading the playoff-bound New York Giants to a 41-31 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

The 35-year-old Giant quarterback, who had been sidelined for a rest but was sent back into the game when reserve quarterback Ralph Guglielmi was injured, set up his record-breaking touchdown pass by running 19 yards on a "bootleg" play. He then completed an 8-yard TD toss to Joe Walton with 1:08 left to play.

A crowd of 62,694 at Yankee Stadium chanted, "Beat Green Bay" as the Giants wrapped up their ninth straight victory. They now go into the Dec. 30 championship game against the Green Bay Packers with the longest winning streak in the modern history of the club.

The huge crowd at Yankee Stadium, representing the Giants' seventh straight home sellout of the year, jubilantly swarmed onto the field and tore down the goal posts at both ends of the gridiron.

Walton Caught Three

Three of Tittle's touchdown tosses sailed into the arms of Walton; two more were caught by Alex Webster and another by Frank Gifford. In all, Tittle completed 21 of 42 passes for a total of 341 yards. At least three of his on-target passes were dropped by intended receivers in the final quarter.

The season total of 33 TD passes broke the old mark of 32 set by Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts during the 12-game 1959 season and matched by Sonny Jurgensen of the Philadelphia Eagles during the 14-game 1961 campaign.

Tittle might never have had an opportunity to break the record. However, had it not been for the Giants' rugged defense. The Giants led only 35-31 with less than six minutes left to play when Don Bishop intercepted a Tittle pass and carried it back to the New York 17.

However, the Giant defenders held the Cowboys to seven yards in the next four plays to regain possession of the ball. Minutes later, Dick Lynch intercepted a pass on the Dallas 35 to give Tittle the golden opportunity for his record touchdown toss.

An Aerial Circus

The first half was an aerial circus in which Tittle's passes gained 251 yards and the Dallas quarterback team of Eddie LeBaron and Don Meredith combined for a 203-yard passing total. Six of the seven touchdowns during the first half were scored through the air as the Giants took a 28-24 lead.

The setback left Dallas with a 5-8-1 mark and placed them fourth in the Eastern Division. The Giants finished with a 12-2 record.

Pitt Breaks Dukes' Hold On Steel Bowl Cage Title

Panthers Win, 85-59, Cincy, Ohio State And Duke Victors

By United Press International
Everything goes through channels in the Army, but Pittsburgh went straight to "The General" for the Steel Bowl basketball championship.

The Panthers broke Duquesne's two-year hold on the Steel Bowl title by defeating the Dukes 85-59 Saturday night and it was Brian Generalovich, known as "The General," who engineered the triumph.

Named the tournament's most valuable player, Generalovich tossed in 25 points as he put Pitt in front from the start and helped keep it there until the final buzzer. Dave Roman was Generalovich's chief aide with 20 points for the Panthers.

Form generally held up throughout the country Saturday night with top-ranking Cincinnati setting the pace by defeating Kansas 64-49.

The Bearcats completed their two-night sweep of the Sunflower doubleheader at Lawrence, Kan., when center George Wilson led them to victory over the Jayhawkers with 20 points.

Heyman Paced Duke

Art Heyman registered 35 points, including two with 45 seconds left, to pace second-ranked Duke to a 76-75 squeaker over Louisville on the losers' court, and third-ranked Loyola (Ill.) toyed with overmatched South Dakota 105-58.

Ohio State, the nation's fourth-ranked team, beat Texas Christian 74-62, with reserve guard Dick Ricketts coming off the bench to score eight points for the Buckeyes in the last five minutes.

Fifth-ranked Mississippi State had a minimum of difficulty downing Memphis State 77-66, and sixth-ranked Oregon State won comfortably enough from California 70-60, but seventh-ranked Stanford had all it could do before squeezing by San Francisco 44-43.

Illinois Downed Iowa
Eighth-ranked Illinois had to go into overtime to knock off Iowa State 76-73, and ninth-ranked Bowling Green overpowered Western Kentucky 83-58. West Virginia, 10th-ranked in the country, enjoyed a night off.

Unbeaten Pennsylvania reeled off its fourth straight victory with a 74-70 triumph over Vanderbilt at Philadelphia although the Quakers had to withstand a late rally by the losers. John Wideman led Penn with 18 points and Bob Grace was high man for Vanderbilt with 17.

Southern California shook off its first half jitters to defeat Oklahoma 66-51 at Los Angeles. The Sooners spurred to a 21-9 lead but the Trojans settled down and forged to a 34-32 lead at halftime.

Nick Werkman pumped in 34 points in pacing Seton Hall to a 69-64 win over Boston University at South Orange, N.J., where 3,450 fans were forced to evacuate the gymnasium at half-time because of a bomb threat. Police and firemen searched the gym, but failed to discover any bomb.

Yale's defending Ivy League champions survived a sluggish start to beat Brown 73-52 at Providence, R.I., where all-league forward Rick Kaminsky led the Elis with 21 points.

Garland Scored 25

Mei Garland's 25-point performance helped Purdue to a 93-78 victory over Butler while Jim Rayl scored 24 points in leading Indiana to a 90-76 win over North Carolina. Sophomore center Bill Cunningham had 28 points for the losers.

Maryland scored its first victory of the season when a second half rally led by Connie Carpenter helped produce a 67-61 win over Virginia. Carpenter netted 23 points for the Terrapins, 17 of them in the second half.

Arizona State rolled to its fifth victory in a row without a loss by downing Kansas State 77-72, and fast-breaking North Carolina State crushed George Washington 87-48.

Florida's Gators, never in trouble, defeated Wake Forest 73-67 as Tom Barbee led the winners with 27 points; Wisconsin mauled Miami of Ohio 84-58, and Ohio University fought off a late surge by Iowa to beat the Hawkeyes 62-54.

In other leading games around the nation, Michigan defeated Evansville 71-64; Boston College downed William & Mary 66-53; Texas A&M edged past Houston, 69-67; Marquette bowled over St. Mary's (Calif.) 82-70; Niagara downed Villanova 73-71; Oklahoma State topped Texas 69-65; DePaul nipped Minnesota 67-74; and Kentucky clipped Northwest, 71-60.

More than half of the horses on the opening 9-race card were fresh from Pimlico, which closed Saturday to end Maryland's 1962 racing season. The Pimlico management operates the meeting at Charles Town.

W. E. Bridgeforth's Bonus and Leon Delorme's Tuscan Spy were top weighted at 122 pounds for the Inaugural Purse, opening day feature. An 8-horse field was expected to compete in the 6½ furlong dash.

Twin double betting on the fifth through the eighth races will be revived, after having been discontinued during the fall meeting.

Pimlico closed its 28-day meeting with a daily betting average of $929,087, down 14.8 per cent as compared with the similar meeting last year. Total attendance was 271,822.

Ronnie Ferraro, the leading jockey in the national standings with 350 winners this year, rode 51 mounts to victory at Pimlico for the best showing during the meeting.

Brothers Eugene and Richard Ross accounted for four goals apiece, and Bob Park and Jeep Ferguson scored the other two for the local skaters. Dave Herrmann tallied the losers' lone goal.

The Raiders are idle now until January 6, when they will participate in the Roanoke Roller Hockey Invitational Tournament at the Skate-a-Drome in Roanoke, Va.

The summary:
Moon Glo Raiders . . . . . 4 1 5-16
Glassport Jets . . . . . 0 0 1-1
Goals: Moon Glo — Richard Ross 4, Eugene Ross 4, Bob Park, Jeep Ferguson, Glassport — Dave Herrmann.

Hornsby Improved

CHICAGO (AP) — Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Chicago Cubs and one of baseball's greatest right-handed hitters continued to improve Sunday after suffering a stroke Friday while recuperating from minor eye surgery.

Clippers Win, 4-3

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Third period goals by Brian Hexall Jr. and Leon Rochefort powered the Baltimore Clippers to a 4-3 American Hockey League victory over the Rochester Americans Sunday night.

The victory enabled the Clippers to climb over the .500 mark, but they still remained in last place in the tough Eastern Division.

ABL Motors Help Loft Satellite

Explorer XVI Is Making Study Of Meteorite Hazards

The Allegany Ballistics Laboratory here furnished two stages of the Scout rocket which yesterday lofted into orbit a new earth satellite designed to study the tiny meteorites which may pose a major hazard to manned space flights.

The four-stage Scout rocket shot the satellite — named Explorer XVI — into space at 9:33 a. m. yesterday from Wallops Island, Va.

The third stage of the launching vehicle was an X259 Antares II, and the fourth stage an X248 Altair, both designed, developed and manufactured at the ABL plant here.

It was the 77th straight success for the Altair 248.

The X259 is an advanced version of the X-254 Antares I and gave 30 per cent more carrying power over the earlier version of the rocket.

The additional performances of the motor is attributed to an improved high energy solid propellant fuel developed at ABL.

Has More Power

Hercules scientists at ABL said the motor is the same size as the earlier 254 and increases the power of the Scout and at the same time fits in the same space and weight limitations of the third phase of the Scout vehicle.

Encased in a spirally fiber-glass shell manufactured at Hercules at Rocky Hill, Pa., the X259's total weight is approximately 2,750 pounds and following burn out, about 220 pounds.

At 3 p.m. the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the satellite had achieved orbit and begun its work of reporting on micrometeoroids — minute particles of solid matter that speed rapidly through space.

NASA said early, unrefined figures indicated the orbit is at 52 degrees inclination from the equator and has an apogee, or high point, of 733 miles and a perigee, or low point, of 466 miles. Its time for a single orbit was reported as 104 minutes. The orbit was satisfactorily close to the projected pattern of 661 miles and 453 miles.

Is Operating

The NASA announcement said Explorer XVI's "telemetry and experiments appear to be operating satisfactorily." The new satellite is counted on to add greatly to micrometeoroid data gathered by earlier space vehicles.

Scientists need to know whether the space particles are sufficiently abundant to represent hazards to manned or unmanned space craft.

Space designers also need to know which materials are most strongly resistant to such penetrating objects.

Accordingly the satellite is designed to:

1. Measure micrometeoroid puncture hazards directly by means of samples of space craft structural surfaces.
2. Measure particles having different momentums.
3. Compare the performance of protected and unprotected solar cells.

The cylindrical satellite is 24 inches in diameter and 76 inches long. It was built on the motor casing of the Scout's fourth stage, which was to go into orbit as an integral part of the satellite assembly.

Weights 222 Pounds

The total weight in orbit: 222 pounds.

The Scout is a four-stage, solid-fueled rocket 72 feet tall and weighing 36,600 pounds at launch.

Meteoroids are composed of iron, silicates and other substances. Some may come from the asteroids—possibly the remnants of an exploded planet—which revolve around the sun between Mars and Jupiter and periodically cross the earth's path.

Meteoroids usually burn, and thereby become meteors, as they enter the atmosphere. Those which reach the earth are called meteorites, and scientists estimate that several thousand tons of minute meteorites, or micrometeorites, may settle on the earth in a single day.

These tiny particles may strike a satellite at velocities ranging from seven to 45 miles a second.

Postmaster Thanks Public For Mail Early Support

While it is too late to talk about early mailing of Christmas cards and gifts, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said yesterday he was grateful for the public's excellent cooperation to date on his "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign.

Time means everything now, he pointed out, even a few hours delay in getting cards and gifts mailed may mean disappointment to friends and loved ones on Christmas day.

With the Christmas mail now hitting its peak the post office reported some 73,000 pieces of letter mail was handled during yesterday's extra hours of service. More than 1,500,000 pieces of mail were handled at the main post office for a seven day period ending Saturday.

The postmaster offered a few important suggestions. Don't mail money in Christmas cards or par-

State Highway Accidents Kill Seven

By The Associated Press

Seven persons died in Maryland accidents during the weekend—three in traffic, two in fires and two by carbon monoxide poisoning.

A bus-car collision near Waldorf, Md., Sunday afternoon killed Charles Lockerman, 22, of Brandywine, Md. Police said the car, driven by Lockerman, struck a culvert as it was going south, then careened into the northbound bus.

The bus driver and the three passengers aboard the chartered bus were treated and released from Physicians Memorial Hospital, where Lockerman was pronounced dead on arrival.

The death toll on Maryland highways for the year is now 561 compared with 435 a year ago.

A one-car accident in Montgomery County Saturday night killed two men.

Killed when a car ran off Fairland Road near Wheaton and struck a tree were Elmer Williams, 37, of Takoma Park, and Clarence O. Kelley, 37, of Silver Spring. Three other men were injured in the crash.

Fires took the lives of two elderly persons. Theresa O'Connor, 77, Catonsville, died Friday night from burns she received when her clothing apparently caught fire from a kitchen stove.

Joseph A. Knott died Saturday when fire destroyed an abandoned automobile he had been using as living quarters at Clements, St. Marys County. State Police said the fire apparently started when an oil heater overturned inside the car.

The victims of carbon monoxide poisoning were James Wells, 38, of Buckeystown, Frederick County, and Ruth Anna Grace Diggs, 35, of Frederick. Dr. Frank Broshart, Montgomery County medical examiner, ruled the deaths accidental.

The bodies of the man and woman were found in a car Saturday at a construction site near Gaithersburg. Police said the car had no exhaust tailpipe and the windows were closed.

Untaxed Spirits Bring $25 Fine To Washingtonians

Two Washington, D. C. men were fined $25 each after a hearing in Bedford Saturday on charges of unlawful possession of distilled spirits.

Pennsylvania State Police arrested Ralph Seaton, 39, and Haywood J. Paige, 36, of Washington, on Pennsylvania Turnpike near Napier Township in Bedford County at 12:50 a. m. Saturday. The men had in their possession 11 and one-half fifths of untaxed whiskey.

They both pleaded guilty to the charge preferred by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace H. Cyril Bingham, Bedford.

Their 1956 Pontiac was confiscated by Alcohol Tax Division agents.

Seven Women Complete Orientation Session Here

Seven new social welfare aides received Red Cross pins and certificates Wednesday following an orientation session at the office of Allegany County Chapter. Mrs. Edward Dove, vice chairman of the board of directors, presented the awards.

The new aides are Mrs. Olive C. Metz, Mrs. Margaret Geatz, Mrs. William B. Riffle, Mrs. Ellen T. McKenzie, Mrs. Evelyn Bollman, Mrs. Kathleen Woods and Mrs. Alice Walton.

Others taking the orientation course which is basic for all volunteer Red Cross workers were Mrs. Edith A. Scharf, Miss Carolyn L. Rahrig, Mrs. Marian Faulkner, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Margaret O'Rourke, Mrs. Naomi Rice and Mrs. Dorothy Dove. Mrs. Alec Cross, chairman of Barton branch of Allegany County chapter, was a guest.

The Social Welfare Aide Group held a meeting following the ceremony at which time they evaluated the recent Voice From Home program for servicemen. Volunteers assisted servicemen's families in recording messages which were sent to the servicemen, along with a snapshot of the recording session. Plans were made to continue the program next Christmas.

Mrs. Geatz, chairman of the resources committee, announced plans to compile a listing of all available resources for servicemen, their families and dependents, in this community.

Mrs. Walton, Mrs. Dove and Mrs. Ernest Fauss recently were appointed members of the chapter's Home Service policy committee.

Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Metz, Mrs. Bollman and Mrs. Rudolph Mendelsohn were appointed to the by-laws committee.

The next meeting will feature a film on disaster.

Emmanuel Assistant Resigns

Rev. August W. Peters Jr., assistant to the rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church since July 1961, has submitted his resignation to become vicar of St. Alban's Mission at Halfway, between Hagerstown and Williamsport, early in January.

His resignation, submitted to the Vestry last Tuesday, was announced to Emmanuel's congregation at services yesterday by Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector.

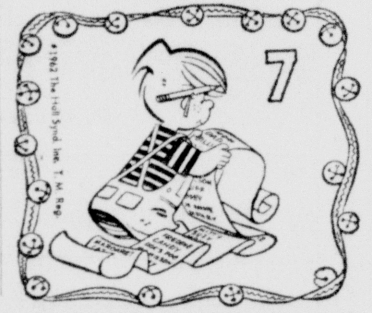

Rev. Mr. Peters was ordained to the priesthood July 18 in a service at Emmanuel Church in which Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, officiated.

A native of Baltimore County, the Emmanuel assistant was graduated from Catonsville High School in 1951. He attended Towson State Teachers College, then served in the Army and was graduated from the University of Maryland in 1957. After one year as a sixth grade teacher in Baltimore County he entered the Berkeley Divinity School in Connecticut, from which he was graduated shortly before coming here in 1961.

Rev. Mr. Peters, his wife and two small children have been living at the Emmanuel House, 24 Washington Street. They will leave for his Washington County vicarage the week of January 6.

Condition Listed

Richard C. Walker, 25, of 927 Maryland Avenue, was listed in fair condition and Charles D. Snyder, 22, of 64 Blocher Street, Ridgeley, in good condition, last night at Bedford County Memorial Hospital, where they were admitted Saturday after a car-truck accident on U.S. Route 220 south of Bedford.

Police Probe Theft Case At Club Here

City police are investigating the theft of about $100 in currency from the 25 North Club over the weekend.

City Officer J. A. Brown discovered yesterday at 5:15 a. m. that the establishment at 25 North Mechanic Street had been entered, finding a rear door open when he was making his rounds of business establishments.

Police said a check of the premises revealed that a small cabinet-type safe had been ransacked and said Henry Frederick, manager, estimated about $100 in bills and change was missing.

Most of the money, police were told, was in small gray metal bank which was also taken, along with at least eight bottles of whiskey.

Detective Royce Clayton, who investigated, said entrance was gained by a key or by someone who hid in the building until closing time. No evidence of a forced entry was found.

The door of the club was closed 4 a. m., Officer Brown reported.

The Army and Navy Sales Company, 19 North Centre Street, reported Saturday that during the night someone knocked a hole in a front window and removed a knife from the window display.

Petty Officer Joins Staff

William E. Knight, MM2-P1, USN, a native of Sacramento, Calif., has been assigned to duty at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, McKaig's Hill, under Lt. Michael J. Gallo, USN, commanding officer.

Knight enlisted in the California National Guard, 184th Infantry Maintenance Division, on April 3, 1956, while still attending high school. One year later he enlisted with the U. S. Navy at San Francisco. He received his recruit training at San Diego, then attended Class A Machinist's Mate School at Great Lakes, Ill., where he was graduated October 23, 1957.

His first sea duty was aboard the U.S.S. Renville, APA 227, with San Diego as home port. His ship participated in Operation Hardtack (atomic tests) in the Marshall Islands in 1958 and made three Far East tours.

Later, he was transferred to the USS Calvert, APA 32, for temporary duty following an emergency leave from his ship, which then was in the Philippines. In March, 1959, he returned to the Renville for another Far East cruise.

On August 3, 1960, Knight was assigned to the U.S.S. Epping Forest, LSD-4, with Sasebo, Japan, as home port. While stationed in Japan, he re-enlisted in the Navy. On March 30, 1962, he married Miss Eiko Mizuyama, a Japanese girl.

Knight came to Cumberland November 17 after having served three months in Norfolk, Va., where he was graduated from the U. S. Naval Instructor's School in preparation for his present assignment. Mr. and Mrs. Knight are residing in Apartment 46, 221 Glenn Street.

Pet Deer Is Killed At Park

Jasper Is Victim Of Hunting Arrow

Jasper, the pet deer who has delighted thousands of Cumberland area youngsters during visits to Constitution Park here during the past 14 years, is dead.

He was the victim of an assassin's arrow as he was penned in his cage at the park over the night.

It was, said one officer who was engaged in the search for Jasper's killer, a "low down dirty trick."

Authorities early last night recovered a part of the hunting arrow used to kill the pet deer and said it apparently was broken off while the deer was dying or as it was dragged from its pen.

Lt. Thomas J. See and Game Warden William E. Law were busy investigating the death of the deer last night.

Police said after the captive deer was shot, the killer dragged it out of the yard and into a waiting truck or car.

The deer was gone from its pen by 7 a. m. yesterday.

Lt. See said the killer had tried to break the lock to the gate of the pen but failed and had to loosen the wire near the gate.

He said Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, reported "Jasper" would have been 15 next spring. He was a fine specimen and boasted some 13 points on his rack.

"Jasper" has been a park attraction since, as a fawn, he was donated to Constitution Park by area game officials.

Children who went to visit their pet deer yesterday were seen in tears, looking in vain for their pet.

"Jasper" had rather cosmopolitan tastes in food and eagerly ate grass, greens and flowers thrust through the wire by people of all ages.

His favorite snack, however, was cigarettes, which he chewed and then swallowed with evident enjoyment.

General Frank Gives Reasons For Breakup

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Maj. Gen. J. Calvin Frank, former head of the 79th Infantry Division (reserve) of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, feels that politics and the by-passing of long-established guidelines were mostly responsible for the break up of his old command.

The 79th, called the Cross of Lorraine Division, is one of four reserve divisions singled out by the Defense Department for reorganization into much smaller brigades. The action will leave the seven-state second area with just one combat ready reserve division, the 83rd of Ohio and West Virginia.

Frank, of Harrisburg, made his feelings known over the weekend when he told of a year-long fight to save the division. He indicated his verbal battle was fought in the face of strong political counter pressures from Ohio and a lack of help from officials in the three states where the 79th is located.

Frank, who retired Dec. 9 as 79th commander, contended this factors tipped the scales toward retention of the 83rd.

—Intercession of Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle in behalf of the 83rd with Washington authorities.

—Defense Department refusal to consider CONARC ratings and troop strengths of the two divisions which previously were agreed upon as key yardsticks.

—Failure of Gov. David L. Lawrence and officials of the other two states to go to bat for the 79th.

Decision In June

Frank said the decision to use the CONARC ratings and recommendations in deciding which of two divisions in a single army area was to be retained was made in June, 1961. These evaluations started with the summer encampments of that year.

"In December, I was informed in the Pentagon that our division had been chosen for retention as a combat division," he said. "Naturally I was pleased and told that fact to the division."

Frank said the ratings were all in favor of the 79th. Its units were rated better than the 83rd's

Four Injured In Weekend Area Accidents

Two Garrett Co. Crashes Reported

Four persons were hurt, none seriously, yesterday in three separate accidents in the Tri-State area. Road conditions were termed a factor in one accident.

Two accidents occurred within a short distance and time each other near Finzel Road in Garrett County.

Gene Glenn Fowt, 22, of Barton, was admitted to Miners Hospital with a possible concussion after a one-car accident about 12:45 a.m. on Finzel Road. He was reported in satisfactory condition last night. Paul A. Kiddy, 30, of RD 1, Barton, a passenger in the car, was not injured.

Police Fowt was driving east on Route 40 at an apparently high rate of speed when he failed to negotiate a slight right curve and the car ran off the north side of the highway. Trooper P. R. Reynolds investigated.

In a two-car accident on the same road at 1:40 a.m., William P. Johnson, 20, of Meyersdale, driver of one car, was admitted to Miners Hospital with severe lacerations and possible knee injury. He was discharged from the hospital yesterday afternoon. Driver of the second car, Floyd R. Guthrie, 23, Star Route, Frostburg, was uninjured.

According to police reports, Guthrie was traveling east on Route 40 in the passenger lane. Johnson who was traveling west, crossed over the center line and struck the Guthrie car. Trooper J. F. Powers conducted an investigation. Johnson was charged with failure to keep right of center.

Police said road conditions may have been a contributing factor in a third accident which occurred at 11 a.m. yesterday on Route 135 at Luke, which was snow covered at the time. The driver and a passenger were admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital.

Robert Eugene Thewlis, 28, of Morgantown, driver, sustained an injured knee and lacerated lip in the one-car accident, and Melvin Eugene Friend, 32, of Uppington, W. Va., was hospitalized with a sprained neck and lacerations of the chin.

The car operated by Thewlis was traveling east on Route 135 when the car dropped off the road into a defective shoulder while making a left turn. The driver lost control of the vehicle which struck a guard rail post. Investigation was conducted by Trooper R. W. Andrews.

It's All Clear Now

Working around the clock, B & O work crews from Cumberland and Somerset late yesterday afternoon cleared these wrecked cars from the Pittsburgh Division's right of way about three miles above Hyndman, where 19 cars of the "Pittsburgh Time-saver" derailed late Saturday morning. The freight cars seen here were tossed like matchsticks along the right of way. Tracks were cleared at 5:40 p. m. yesterday and traffic movement over the tracks was normal early last evening.
